Explanation of Local Expenditures: (Revised) Counties or municipalities that limit the use of fireworks could experience a decrease in expenditures for public safety and emergency medical services. The Indiana State Department of Health tracked fireworks injuries during 2003 and 2004. During that time, 454 injuries were reported statewide. The proposal could also reduce expenditures associated with local inspections and re-inspections of vendors and displays. Enforcement and inspection expenses would be minimal. The specific impact on local expenditures is indeterminable and would vary by location.
